I really appreciate the navigation bar, which is super clear and easy to follow. The sections organize the content clearly and show enough content for the viewers to understand who Frank Ocean is.

The About section:

I know this is a very rough draft currently so maybe you were planning to add images to it, but I think you could add more images in each section. I also think there could be some color to the background or other interactive elements to the page!

The Discography section:

I think the addition of Spotify feels nice so maybe having that for each of his albums would be interactive and both interesting for the user. I think having a title for each of the album and when clicked, showing the description and the list of songs for the album would be informative.

Overall nice work and I think with some styling this website would look very interesting and engaging!
